ROTC Expands To Ft. Valley

With the start of the school year 1969-70, Fort Valley State College will begin offering Military Science courses under the sponsorship of the Department of the Army. The establishment of a Reserve Officer's Training Corps (ROTC) program at Fort Valley is possible under an agreement entered with Mercer.

A four year course of military instruction has been established which the Professor of Military Science at Mercer will prescribe and conduct. Students will be enrolled in Military Science at Fort Valley State Registrar, who will maintain all academic records pertaining to the program. Students enrolled in the program will receive one hour of academic credit for each quarter of the Basic Course (total of 6 hours credit) and five hours credit for each year of the Advanced Course (total of 10 hours credit). Fort Valley expects to maintain a minimum enrollment of two hundred students in the Basic Course (first two years).

Student cadets will receive all their instruction on the Fort Valley State campus, except for six-weeks Summer Camp between their junior and senior year. They will be required to wear their uniform once a week on the day drill is scheduled. Two classroom and an adjacent office have been assigned in the Academic Building to satisfy initial classroom requirements. The practice football field will be used for drill. The armory will continue in use as a military supply and storage.

Since the establishment of a de facto ROTC unit would be in violation of government regulations, acceptance and control of Military Department faculty remains with the President of Mercer. Normally, faculty members of Military Science can expect to be assigned various duties at both schools. An officer of the Military Department is included on faculty committees whose recommendations would directly affect the conduct of the Military Science Program.

Check these eye-openers!

EYE-OPENER No. 1.

By taking Army ROTC, you can earn an officer's commission and a college degree at the same time. Fulfill your military obligation as an officer with officer's pay, privileges, and prestige. Delay your active duty until you complete Law School. Ask Charles Harris.

EYE-OPENER No. 2.

In ROTC you get $50 each month in your junior and senior years. Free flight training at Mercer. A crack at 400 three year and 600 two year scholarships that pay for tuition, books, and lab fees. Ask Curtis Esch.

EYE-OPENER No. 3.

Statistics show you'll do better scholastically than non-ROTC students. And still have time to excel in athletics, extracurricular activities. You'll be with the campus leaders. Ask Steve Carreker.

EYE-OPENER No. 4.

You'll increase your chances for success in life. From the 4% of all college men taking Army ROTC have come 22% of the men now earning over $100,000 per year. 16% of our congressmen, 14% of our ambassadors, 150 of the Army generals now on active duty.

EYE-OPENER No. 5.

You'll have an edge on non-ROTC college grads. Most employers prefer to hire and pay extra for men with ROTC leadership training and officer experience. Why? Because officers know how to motivate and manage men. Are more mature, accept heavier responsibilities, advance faster.

Look at Army ROTC with your eyes wide open. You'll see the opportunities and advantages. The great things in it for you. Take command of your future... take Army ROTC.
