

SEVERAL MEMBERS OF FAIR SEX WILL ATTEND MEETING

Agnes Scott, G. S. C. W., and Other Schools to Send Delegates

NUMBER LIMITED TO 500

Mercer University will entertain the first state-wide Young People's Conference the 22nd, 23rd, and 24th of this month. Leaders of international repute will lead the young people in discussions on "Making Life Count." For the past three years the young people in several counties in the state have been gathering together for an inter-denominational conference under the auspices of the Georgia Sunday School Association. Upon the request of some of these young people the State Association is this year attempting the first state-wide conference.

Registration is limited to 500. Already quite a number of Agnes Scott, G. S. C. W., State Normal College, and Emory students have registered. Many students from other colleges are expected. Mercer's quota is limited to twenty-five; all those interested should see Fred Forrester before April 13th.

The first night of the conference Mr. E. O. Harbin, Director of the Epworth League Board, will talk on the subject: "Making Life Count in My Recreation."

Saturday morning Prof. Willis A. Sutton, of Atlanta, will address the conference.

In the evening a banquet will be given in honor of the assembly.

On Sunday, the last day of the conference, Dr. P. R. Hayward, of Chicago, who is a member of the International Council of Young People's Work will deliver the closing message of the conference.

CAMPUS SERVICES HELD THIS WEEK

At the request of students, the revival that was held on the campus last week has been continued throughout this week. Dr. Weaver, Dr. Jent and Dr. Anderson have been speaking in the place of Dr. John A. Davison, pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Columbus, who conducted the services last week.

Dr. Weaver, who has spoken at the evening services at the theological building, has made "The Problem of Personal Work" the theme of his talks. Dr. Jent spoke at the chapel services Tuesday and Wednesday and Dr. Anderson spoke Thursday and Friday.

(Continued from Page 1) ten-day tours have been taken, one during each of the preceding terms, besides numerous trips of one day length to neighboring towns. Each performance has been pronounced a decided success.

On the club's return to the campus, a banquet will be held, at which time, letters are to be given the members, besides special charms of recognition, presented this year for the first time in the history of the Mercer Glee Club. Election of officers for next year will also be held, probably at this time.

Whole Campus Puzzled Over Unsolved Mysterious Thefts

Two queer thefts have taken place on the campus during the past week. Detectives who are on their trail are baffled as to the who, why, and where. Sherlock Holmes, himself, would probably be astounded at the dastardly crimes. Even he would perhaps find these two cases puzzling.

The most colorful crime is the theft of some cosmetics which belonged to the dramatic club. The criminal was particular as to the ones which he selected, and evidently he had good taste. The detectives base the last presumption upon the fact that the party in question selected his or her cosmetics all in one shade.

Look-Out Co-Eds!

The "her" used implies that it may have been a co-ed. Since one of Mercer's fair co-eds uses the particular shade of rouge stolen, and uses it superfluously, the detectives are working along that line of evidence.

The thief was experienced at his trade because he wore rubber gloves. There are no finger prints whatever on the case in which the powders and rouges were kept. The only clew which there is to work on is to study complexions on the campus in an effort to find a new rose upon the cheek of some cake-eating student or professor.

Evidence is Obtained

"Spring has sprung" with all the love and romance that usually accompanies it. Taking the season in consideration the police think that it may have been some pallid shiek attempting to win his love by a new found beauty. The Sherlocks do not give this theory much weight, however, because they are working up a chain of evidence against a certain co-ed. It is rumored that an arrest will be made in a few days.

The other theft has thwarted the police entirely and they have given up. George Clark returned one night to his room in Cynthia Holiday to find his bureau gone. Diligent searches have been made but to no avail. In this crime there was an attempt to answer the question, how? Just how some party got a bureau out of the second floor of the building without being detected still remains a mystery. At least the thief was kind enough to lay his victim's clothes out on the bed.
