

FROM THE BRUIN SPORTLOG

By ALFRED DAVINO

EXTENDING THE ATHLETIC PROGRAM

This season, the campus has been enlarged by the addition of four tennis courts for the exclusive use of the student body and faculty. It is a commendable action indeed on the part of the university authorities, since it has long been the desire of students to have courts on the campus.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

It was a step in the right direction, but only a step; why cannot the students of Mercer enjoy the sports and recreations that are afforded the students of other schools? True, we have varsity football and basketball, and fraternity basketball and tennis tournaments; but there it ends. Three years ago, a baseball team represented Mercer; we no longer have one.

A wrestling team and a boxing team were proposed, and there was some exceptionally good talent available for both squads, but because the equipment was not to be had, interest fell off in both departments. There is little or no equipment in the gymnasium, therefore the student who wishes to work out on the parallel bars or the horizontal bar, is denied his opportunity.

Blair Doing Well

The consensus seems to favor the idea that in the event that sufficient apparatus can be secured to make such a thing possible, there could be held interclass matches in boxing, wrestling and gymnastics. Greater interest in athletics by the student body, and by that is meant individual participation in some form of sport, is the objective of those who are interested in a more elaborate program. This year's Athletic Committee is producing much better results than any that ever preceded it, and it is to be hoped that the good work continues; upon the shoulders of Major Blair rests the majority of the work of organization and execution, and the Major is doing a thankless job very well indeed.

Officials Blamed

The failure of Harry Lichter to run that blocked kick for a touchdown was in part the fault of the officials; one of them called to Harry to stop, and then the half ended. The score might have been 10-9, in favor of Mercer, had the unfortunate incident not occurred.

Curry Fights Back

The vicious tackling of Oxo Curry was a revelation; it seems the big boy can be made angry, in spite of his good nature. If he can keep that attitude, there won't be many gains made through right tackle.

Ne Smith, although handicapped with a badly wrenched neck, played one of his very best games, oftentimes throwing the Furman backs for losses of five yards or more. Hemple, too, who according to a local sports scribe, could not snag passes, shone on the defensive. And he did catch passes, one of them for a forty yard gain. This wiry Texan is good.

Bloodworth Blue

It broke Bloodworth's heart when he fumbled that ball in the last quarter. After being responsible for the success of the long pass which put the ball in Furman's territory, it was particularly calling for him to lose the ball on the next play. The breaks of the game. The mite will win plenty of games for Mercer in the future, though, so he need not feel bad about anything. This column still maintains that the tiny quarterback is one of the best players to look for Mercer. Watch him go the rest of the season.

Lee Slow

Bob Lee, although playing a good game Saturday, was still handicapped a bit by his ankle. He came through in good shape, however, and will be all set to run through the Hatters in his accustomed fashion. The injury jinx seems particularly to have hit the General; ever since he has been playing for Mercer, he has had to play with an ailment of some kind bothering him.

Tyson and Mamalakis did themselves proud by throwing back with such gusto, the backs who did break the line of scrimmage; too bad that the superb playing of the line should have been nullified by the completion of a couple of dam-anyone who watches Gus Porter give the light of his life quizzical glances.

John Austin Morris' nickname is Arnie Mae, so the boys all call him Gus for short.

What well known grizzer is contemplating marriage as soon as the season is over?

Peter Pamperknickel Demetros is no longer worried, thank goodness. Whatley Roberts and Woolvin Patten have been hiding their football ability all these years; in practice, this week, they ran the would-be tacklers dizzy.

One girl told Manager Overby why his 'phone did not ring every night. An excess of lint was one reason.

A cheer for Mrs. Stephens, who treats the boys very well indeed.

A bit out of our territory, perhaps, but why do we not have a drinking fountain, at least one, on the campus? This is especially for the girls, since there is one in Sherwood, and it is available to all men students. Why do not the members of the girl's basketball team have a dressing room in the gymnasium? They deserve one as much as the boys.

The Stetson team has a very powerful, and an unusually large set of men from end to end.

If all the Sunday morning quarterbacks were laid end to end, it would be a good thing.

On to Jacksonville!!

HOME COMING DANCES HUGE SUCCESS

Pan Hellenic Dances Declared To Be Best In Recent Years

The Homecoming dances held Friday and Saturday nights were the best that have been sponsored within recent years. The dances were sponsored by the Pan Hellenic Council and were held at the Shrine Mosque.

The music was furnished by Kirk DeVore's eight piece orchestra from Atlanta. Their personality and the ability of each member to play several instruments make one of the best orchestras in the South.

The floor was crowded both Friday and Saturday nights. All the fraternities were well represented. There were, also, a large number of alumni, and others.

Canning most of their food during the summer time enabled a group of co-eds at Alabama Polytechnic Institute (Auburn) to save approximately $167 each on their school expenses.

Named in honor of the Rev. John Harvard, a Puritan, Harvard University (Cambridge, Mass.) is the oldest institution of higher education in the United States, being founded in 1636.

A Master of Nursing degree has been created at Yale University (New Haven, Conn.) for graduates of that institution's school of nursing.

B. S. U. NOTES

By EMMA NORRIS

Many attractive features have been arranged for the Baptist All-Southern Conference at Memphis, October 25-28.

Some of these features are: Student mission plays, B. S. U. dramatic presentations, B. S. U. moving pictures, Baptist World Alliance pictures, State delegation meetings daily, Annual election of state officers, Early morning prayer groups, Prayer-mates meet daily. As many as possible can be invited to go. Be sure to see John Clarke if you are interested in going.

Methodist's Student Union held their annual convention last Friday through Sunday, October 19-21 at Emory University in Atlanta. These conventions were started two years ago at Wesleyan College. Two of our boys, Carrol Tinsley and Jack Hadaway attended and made very favorable reports on the convention.

Dr. Boone was the guest speaker for the Ministerial Association this past Tuesday. He is a very interesting speaker and he spoke this week concerning his trip last summer through Europe and the Holy Land. Claudie S. Scarborough, president, extends his invitation for you to come and hear the visiting speakers each Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the Robert's Chapel.

We hope that you have enjoyed the programs over WMAZ at 7 o'clock each morning under the

LAW STUDENTS ELECT

Three Mercer University law school classes elected officers Monday to serve during the school year. Each class also named two representatives to fill the places on the law school honor court at the same time.

In the senior class, W. T. Ashmore, Jr., Macon, was elected president; Noble E. Bowlby, Miami, Fla., vice president; Sam Stearns, Evergreen, Ala., secretary-treasurer. The members to serve on the honor court were Aaron J. Land, Columbus, and Franklin Dukes, Sandersville.

In the junior election, Bowie Gray, Perry, was named president; Heyward Vann, Thomasville, vice president, and Grayden Reddick, Sylvania, secretary-treasurer. Junior honor court members named were Tom Johnson, Macon, and Woolvin Patten, Macon.

Freshmen elected by their class were Carlton Warnock, Tarrytown, president; James Stapleton, Dawson, vice president, and Cooper Etheridge, Perry, secretary-treasurer. Jot Pickard, Buena Vista; Emory Tool, Cuthbert, will represent the first year law students on the honor court.

G. Brainerd Currie, Augusta, law school senior, was elected justice of the honor court in a meeting of the law club two weeks ago.

direction of Solon Couch. It would be appreciated if you make your comments on the program to him.

We all regret the fact that Carl Sanders has broken his nose but we hope that he is able to go to Memphis as he had planned.

Good Taste!

Luckies They Taste Better

Luckies are round, Luckies are firm, Luckies are fully packed with only the clean center leaves—these are the mildest leaves—they cost more—they taste better.
