

ASHMORE ELECTED TO HEAD PHI DELTA LITERARY SOCIETY

Murr, Early, Norris, Wilson, Edwards Also Chosen Officers

DEBATE STAGED

W. T. Ashmore, Jr., Macon, was elected president of the Phi Delta literary society and Jack Murr, Americus, was elected vice-president at a recent meeting of the society.

Other officers elected were: Miss Josephine Early, Macon, secretary; Warwick Norris, Louisville, Ky., treasurer; Mrs. Eleanor Wilson, Macon, critic; Miss Marie Edwards, Talbotton, sponsor.

Elizabeth Wilson and Solon Couch took the affirmative and Miss Mary Pinkerton and Joe Stephens debated the negative side of the question: "Resolved: that ice is not all that it is cracked up to be." Those defending the negative side of the question captured the decision.

It was announced that Dr. E. E. Overton, new member of the faculty of the law school, will speak at the next meeting.

STUDENTS GO TO FAIR

(Continued from Page 1) supposed to go. Before I had revived from that ride they had me on another—you remember the "Waltzer." Well! I still have a very painful crick in my neck. But the "Rocket Cars"—they were my limit. It's a sickening enough feeling when you go over the top of the ferris wheel—and just imagine trying it upside down. I stood by and watched somebody else do my fainting.

The Carioes

At the farther end of the grounds there was such a crowd of boys it looked like freshmen turned out for a pep meeting before the home coming game. But when you could see what was interesting the crowd—it was a side show—the "Carioes"—"nuff sed." Anyway the door was jammed with Mercer boys trying to get in to see the show ahead of everybody else—they must have been afraid they wouldn't be there if history happened to repeat itself—about Sally's fan.

Goes Broke

I got stuck on one of those "Mac West dolls" and held to number 15 until I didn't have anything to hold on with. The old saying "It's best to stop when you're winning" is O. K.—but how was I to know that it was my only lucky break when the first chance won 50c. Besides who can resist putting up the dime when he knows that wheel is turning and it's bound to stop on somebody's number—it may be yours. Only once I took my dime off and that time my number won. Suck luck! Tsh-tsh! In the long run I started home tired out and with only a bag of salt water taffy.

Cheer Up

I for one am looking forward to the Fair next year for it is the only time I can eat hot dogs—all the way—without having them bark for water all night. But cheer up fellows and don't worry—the "Carloca" may come back next year!

the last three times by the aerial route.

Coach Russell, in this week's practice session has stressed the blocking of the linemen, which in the Furman game was set up to standard. Three scrimmages were held against the Frosh, and in these the coaching staff ironed out the faults as manifested in the Homecoming game.

The team entrains this afternoon for Jacksonville and will return Sunday noon.

a "sock" at an upper classman when the said upperclassman attempted to paddle a certain Freshman. There was nothing in the Freshman's attitude to suggest any harmful consequences, so the upperclassman started applying the paddle in the place where it would do the most good, and was his face red when he found that he was the victim instead of the Freshman.

The FORMAL magazine, newly published magazine for college students, carries an informal story of Byron. At Columbia University a professor annually repeats a joke in connection with the study of Byron. It is as follows: "Byron had an admirer who wrote him daily requesting an interview at which she would take but a few moments of his precious time. This kept up for a year and finally overcome by curiosity and impatience, the god-like Byron granted the interview.

"And," concludes the professor, "we may rest assured that it was a most extraordinary interview. For, in a short time, she became the mother of one of his children."

At the Colorado School of Mines the sophs were prohibited from paddling the freshmen, but the second classmen are not called "wise fools" for nothing, because they get around the rule by making the freshmen paddle each other.

We all get breaks, good and bad. What happens when they occur is mostly a matter of how we meet them.—Deems Taylor.

Athletic Association Guests of Ritz Show

Next Hike To Be Overnight Hike to Home of Miss Williamson

The first of a series of hikes, planned by the Co-ed Athletic Association under the direction of Miss Hilda Beggs, hiking master of the group, was held Wednesday night.

About fifteen of the members met at the girls' dormitory on Adams street, and walked to the Ritz Theater on Cherry street. They were admitted free of charge by Mr. Harry Glenn, manager of the theater, to see Shirley Temple in "Baby Take A Bow." On the way home the party stopped by the Dixie Dairies for refreshments.

This hike was planned at a called meeting of the association held in the Chapel Tuesday. Hilda Beggs announced that the next hike would be an overnight trip to the home of Miss Virginia (Cowboy) Williamson, on the Perry road.

Students poorly trained for a college career, and who do not wish to take work for a higher degree, have been enrolled in a special course designed to give them subjects that will be most profitable for them in their short stay in college at the University of Missouri (Columbia).

they could get started towards the line of scrimmage.

Stevens Good

The punting honors of the afternoon went to Roy Stevens, the Furman fullback, who averaged 46 yards on his kicks, to 41 for Bloodworth; the latter, however, was rushed on several of his boots, which brought his average down considerably. The punting of the Purple fullback was a thing of beauty; he placed the ball wherever it would be of the greatest disadvantage to the home team.

Hutt, the Furman back who was expected to be the man to watch, did not prove to be so very troublesome; the Bears kept him bottled up all afternoon. Stevens and Blair two sophomores, were the boys who were responsible for a sad Mercer Homecoming. The kicking of the former combined with the passing of the latter proved sufficient to effect the downfall of Mercer.

For Mercer the outstanding men were NeSmith and Hemple, ends; Curry and Porter, tackles; Lichter, Varner and Bloodworth.

For Furman it seemed that Stevens and Blair in the backfield, and Roper at end did all the noticeable work.

This defeat marked the fourth successive loss for the Bears in as many starts, the three previous games having been lost to Presbyterian, Loyola, and Birmingham-Southern. Tomorrow the Bears journey to Jacksonville to engage Stetson in their fifth start of the season.
