

THE MERCER CLUSTER

VOLUME 17.

MERCER UNIVERSITY, MACON, GA., MARCH 26, 1937

Number 22

ONE-MINUTE INTERVIEWS

What effect do you think the repeal of prohibition would have on Mercer?

ALLAN BLOODWORTH: I don't think it would make any difference. There's been less drinking on this campus every year since I've come here.

JACK MOSLEY: It would have no effect at all.

BILL LANCE: I don't think it would have any effect on Mercer as Mercer is a denominational school and drinking is prohibited, if that means anything.

BAILEY SMALL: I think it would have no effect whatsoever.

CHARLES HODGES: I don't know.

FRED FORD: Mercer would not know what to do with herself.

LEON HEARIN: None.

AL OWEN: The boys who drink would have an opportunity to get after liquor.

BILLY SMITH: I think all the boys who want liquor now can get so repeal would not make any difference except that the phone numbers would be in the telephone book — not handed out on Little Rock.

ANNIE WHEAT JONES: I don't think it would have any effect, the boys would get just as drunk as usual.

EDNA SYKES: None at all.

ABE CONGER: I don't think it would make any difference.

OSCAR SPICER: I think it would have very little effect.

BILLY KNOX: None at all, we're all insulated.

JACK POOL: I don't think a thing like prohibition stands the way of Mercorians, so it would make no difference.

MYERS CLINE: I don't think it would have much effect.

FRED TYSON: It would not be worse than before.

MORY TRAWICK: I don't know.

WALKER SAMMONS: I think it would have a wonderful effect.

ALBERT SANDERS: I don't think it would change the present situation at all.

DAVID MINCEY: It wouldn't affect Mercer at all directly.

Writer Tells About Strange Meeting Of Dictum Club In Law School Attic

Miss Susan Myrick Visits Mercer Group And Writes Of Proceeding Surrounded With Mystery

Editors Note: The following article was written by Miss Susan Myrick, feature writer for the Macon Telegraph, and printed in the March 5 edition of the Macon News. We reprint it here by special permission from the author.

A drop-light, shaded by pieces of cardboard, makes gloomy the recesses of an attic room in the Mercer law school. Dusty tomes line the walls. A bare table stands in the glare directly under the light. Around it are seated three young men, members of the Dictum Club. Enter a fourth member. Ceremoniously one of the Dicta rises and advances to meet his comrade. Gravely each extends his straight forward, palm upward; the he places his hand above his heart, then lays it alongside his skull and extends it again to shake the hand of his friend whom he addresses in sepulchral accents as "Comrade." The Dictum Club has a fine high-sounding motto: "Identitas vera collegitior ex multitudinis signorum." They believe in the old

Petition Refused Humor Magazine

Magazine Has Not Met Literary, Editorial, And Artistic Requirements

A petition by the publishers of the Bear Skin, campus humorous magazine, to make contracts for next year was presented at a recent meeting of the faculty committee on student publications, said Dr. Wilbur Stout, chairman of the committee.

"The petition was not granted," Dr. Stout said, "chiefly because the Bear Skin has shown itself unable to meet the literary, artistic, and editorial requirements this year." It is understood that the Bear Skin is now several months behind schedule in publications.

The publishers offered a plan for improvement which they proposed to put into effect immediately. Briefly, the plan involves enlistment of more student talent with the business control remaining in private hands. Unless this plan produces good results by June, there

Frances Delaney Is Blues Singer With Popular Orchestra

TWO DANCES TOMORROW

Continuing their engagement here, Wesley Kay and his orchestra play tonight at ten o'clock at the Shrine Mosque for the second in the series of Little Commencement dances being presented by the Alumni of the Greek Letter association of Macon.

The first dance of the series was held last night with a large crowd in attendance. The orchestra appears again tomorrow afternoon, and then tomorrow night at nine o'clock, for the final dances of the series.

Wesley Kay presents his own distinctive style of "Lombardo-like" melody. With the band are Frances Delaney and the "three K's trio," who furnish the vocal talent.

Kay has played for several major college proms, having appeared at the University of Buffalo, Cornell, Syracuse, V.P.I., William and Mary, Clemson, Citadel, and Colgate. Last week-end Kay played for the Clemson spring dances, and two weeks from now will appear at the University of the South at Sewanee.

The orchestra has also had engagements at the Deauville hotel in Miami Beach, Florida; the Westchester-Biltmore Country club in Rye, New York; the Cavalier hotel at Virginia Beach, Virginia; and several other notable places.

In connection with Little Commencement some of the fraternities are having social functions. The Mercer chapter of Pi Kappa Phi is holding a banquet at 7:30 tonight at the New Yorker for members and dates.

During intermission of tonight's dance there will be an open house at the Phi Delta Theta fraternity house.

Mr. Cameron Says NO DANGER IN LIBRARY HEATING SYSTEM

The new quarter begins with the Library still in temporary quarters, but we are assured that it will not be long now before we are in the new building. The plastering is almost completed and it is hoped that the outside doors will arrive within a few days so that the building may be kept closed when the workmen are not in it. As soon as the plastering is completed and dried the walls will be painted, the windows finished, and the building cleaned to receive the furniture and equipment. After that it will be ready for us and you.

Alumni Office Begins Tabulating Addresses

The Alumni Office has begun tabulation of new addresses and other information gained by a complete checkup on all Mercer degree graduates. Until school teachers and Baptist preachers move again, the mailing list is correct, Dr. Stout said.

Several uses are to be made of this new information. First of all, a mimeographed directory will be prepared for limited circulation among the alumni workers. Another project will be the preparation of news-worthy material for the local papers and for the Mercerian, alumni magazine.

Several of the older alumni list the living members of their classes and make report on the present state of their own health. Most frequent item on the cards is the status

We had so many inquiries concerning the safety of the gas installation for the new building that we finally asked the contractor. He assured us that all possible precautions had been taken so that it was practically an impossibility for any explosion to occur. He reminded us also that there are no gas wells in close proximity to the campus where any seepage could occur.

I want to call your attention to two new books ready for circulation this week. One is called the "Flowering of New England" by Van Wyck Brooks, and is an excellent description of the New England scene from 1815-1865, and the part that Longfellow, Lowell, Whittier, Emerson, Thoreau and others played in it. The other is called "Spain in Revolt," by Harry Ganes and Theodora Repard which is about the best book on the Spanish situation we have read; one that gives a background and explanation of causes and results in authoritative style.
