

NEW FACULTY COMMITTEES TO DEAL WITH STUDENT RELATIONS

Six Groups Begin Functioning For 1937-38 School Year

New student relations committees made up of members of the Mercer faculty have been selected for the 1937-1938 school term and have already begun functioning.

There are six student relations committees, including the activities committee composed of Professors Carver, Crudup, Keel, Jones, and Knight; the dormitories committee composed of H. K. Adams, and Professors Crudup, Keel, and S. J. T. Price, and Coach Lake Russell.

The committee on fraternities and sororities composed of Professors Anthony, Bradley, Overton, and Mrs. Montague, and J. D. Blair; the committee on student government consisting of Professors Overton, Carver, Redlich, Smalley, and J. D. Blair.

The publications committees of which Professors Smalley, Allen, Stout, and J. D. Blair and S. J. T. Price are members; the religion committee composed of Professors Freeman, Keel, Martin, Highsmith, and Coach Lake Russell.

pressed the hope further that a number of men and women not primarily interested in earning college credits would register for one or more extension classes at Mercer during the year. He made it clear that all such courses will be conducted along lines of large human and social interests, and in the light of current human relations problems and social issues.

The Saturday morning extension class in character education will meet for a period of 20 weeks, exclusive of holidays, beginning as announced this week. The class will meet promptly at 10 o'clock and close at 12:30 with a 5-minute interval for relaxation during the class period. Extension students not already listed for the course may
