

They Say....

We would like to know the low-down on Milton Bryant and Nell concerning what goes on in lab. Right convenient place, Milton thinks.

Nervy Burkhalter was heard asking Charlie Woodall for his identification bracelet. Of course, she knew all the time that Claire had it.

We thought we would leave Blanche and Poe out this week, but they are making so much progress they just can't be overlooked.

Tex seems to have some mighty strong interest in Thomas-aston. By the way, Tex, when are you going to pin Angie?

That line of yours, Red Williams, is getting 'stale. If you would change it there might be a chance of you dating something besides 16-year-olds.

Bettie Sue and Tex go in for house parties in a big way. They average about one a week—and boy, what house parties!

Cash, we would all love to know how you lead that triple life. First its the girls back home, then Parker, and then Helen Kirby. Parker knows that you weren't just trying to fool her. Get on the ball, kid.

Billy Anderson has made a bad habit of picking up girls at baseball games. Wonder if Jerry knows about that?

Emily Carswell was really burned up last week-end because Hardy had a date with a Phi Mu who is none other than Kay Kahrs.

It seems that Fanny Bryant has at last decided to settle down to one girl after all his wolfing around, and the girl, we hear, is none other than Tom Latimore's Betty Wilson.

Wilson: "Baby, do you love me?" Lukens: "Yes, darling, next to Larry, Fred, and Jack."

Short, can't you take a hint and see that these boys are catching onto your line? I would suggest fading out of the picture.

A hot spill story that we like to tell is about the girl who went out with a certain SAE and arrived home in time for breakfast.

We thought that Fred Hardwick was in love, but it was very obvious at the auditorium Tuesday night that it's a whole lot of bunk.

Old Maids and their laest desires:

- Pat Pinkston—Isom Taylor.
- Harriette Early—Phil Jones.
- Byrd Horton—Gordon Hubbard.
- Bates—Marvin Green.
- Valeucia—George Jackson.
- Leo—Charlie Mixon.
- Nelzena—Tom Corn.
- Mary Lillian Beck—Junior Meeks.
- Doris Blakely—Bill McNabb.
- Lulu Stanford—Ug Lee.

What's Juanita "Swoony" Johnson going to use to chase after now that Leon Brown is gone?

Has Mary Francis got Bill Hackett's Boy Scout pin and Junior G-man button too?

Gordon (Passion Flower) Hubbard, the condensed bundle of pioussness, was seen last week holding a girl's hand on the street. My! my!

Getting back to Mr. Carnegie—Watcha say we discuss a few ways we might win a friend or influence a female. One of the most important rules is to encourage others to talk about themselves—this is well worth your time if you get them slightly inebriated first. Other tips on popularity:

Write a sequel to "Strange Fruit."

Don't feed dogs in the chow hall.

Break the Mann Act. Give your local house-mother the hotfoot.

Don't be bitter if you lose a couple of fingers trying to get silverware at breakfast.

Don't hit your grandma in the head with a shovel—it makes a bad impression on her mind. (Don't look at me. I don't write lyrics to novelty songs.)

If these fail, you probably have pink toothbrush.

This is priceless! During history class a few days ago Major Ferguson asked Ed Cooke to take his clock downstairs and set it by the registrar's clock. Ed dashed out, and shortly returned empty handed. Major, looking as startled as if suddenly he had learned that Lord Nelson was a Nazi agent, asked what had happened to his clock. "I sat it by the registrar's clock like you said," was the sharp reply. Between the two of us, Ed has his brightest moments at night.

Then too, there was a certain co-ed in literature class, when asked to read a passage from Keats' "Ode to a Nightingale," quickly began turning pages, explaining that she was still on the "Grecian Urn."

Pardon me. Someone just came in.

"No, Mott, I don't have a cigarette."

This week's panacea for the ills of society:

What to do with juvenile delinquency? Encourage it, by all means!

Make the necessary apologies while I make a quick exit.

"Your help really counts when you're a WAC!"

say America's college girls

★ Corporal Margaret E. Wyant, University of California. "My family has three men in the Armed Forces, so I couldn't just wait for the war to end. In the Women's Army Corps, I'm working for victory—and I know it's work that'll help bring our boys home sooner."

★ Sergeant Anne Macintosh, New York University. "My job is one that any college girl would be proud to do—intelligence work at an Army post! With 259 different jobs to choose from, every Wac has a chance to do work she's fitted for and enjoys."

★ Private Mary E. Murray, South West Missouri Teachers' College. "Being a Wac makes me feel I'm helping my country—while I help myself, too. I'm getting valuable training and experience for a post-war career. And I'm all set to go new places."

★ Major Cora W. Bass, Mississippi State College. "As a member of the General Staff of the Second Service Command, I see daily the urgent need for more and more Wacs. To every college girl it's a chance to serve her country in a truly important way."

New WAC opportunity for college girls

If you want to finish your college work before starting your Army career, you can enlist now and arrange to be called later—any time within the next 4 months.
