

MERCER CLUSTER

Mirror of Students' Thought and Action

Volume XXVIII

MERCER UNIVERSITY, MACON, GA., WEDNESDAY, MAY 12, 1948

No. 24

Junior Auxiliary's Baby Contest Closes As Six Infants Win Personality Awards

Homer Alexander Oglesby, Jr., age seven months, class A; Phyllis Jean Mays, one year eight months, class B; and Carol Ann Mowell, four years, class C; won first places in the large photo group of the Mercer baby contest sponsored by the Junior Auxiliary, reported Mrs. Anne Wood, Mercer bookstore employee who received all entries.

Baptists Appoint 48 To Committees Of Greater Council

Forty-eight students have been named by the Baptist student Union Executive council to serve on committees of its Greater council.

Jane Brundage, Stewart Clark, Willie Gunn, Sybil Hartley, Norman McCrummen, Charles McMinn, Sue Rawls, and Laurice Walker will serve as the entitment committee.

The social committee is composed of Kitty Jones, Pat Poe, Virginia Reese, and Emily Watson.

Serving on the devotional committee are Marion Epps, Miriam Gordon, Faith Lewis, Marion Matthews, Martha Meeks, Barbara Russell, Jean Singletary, Lewis Smith, Frankie Thompson, Grady Wheeler, Blanche Willis, and Broadus Willoughby.

Lamar Brooks, Frances Gartenhouse, Lillian Howell, Nell Poole, Archie Smith, and Jerry Thomas make up the program committee.

On the extension committee are Carleton Barnes, Raymond Chauncey, Charles Davis, Jean Hovis, and Jeff Smith. Assisting the treasurer on the finance committee are Virginia Garland and Frankie Thompson.

Publicity will be handled by Mildred Balkcom, Sybil Hartley, Jimmy Jones, and Carol Moore. Myra Grady, Dot Hamilton, Carol Moore, and Virginia Rentz will assist the librarian, and Sally McKay and Virginia Rentz will act as assistants to the secretary.

Other members of the council are members of the Gauntlet staff and Sunday School and Training representatives which are yet to be elected.

Health Department Studies Diet Data

Data collected from 60 Mercer co-eds in the recent study to determine iron deficiency in young women is being studied, but no definite results will be known until a similar group completes their testing at Wesleyan May 21, a health department spokesman stated last week.

Results will be forwarded to the individual participants in the program as soon as they are known, the spokesman said. He expressed his appreciation for the co-operation of the 60 Mercer co-eds who aided in the study.

Through data collected over a three-week period and from blood samples, the nutrition team supervising the study hopes to at least partially appraise diets of average young women as to their sufficiency or deficiency of iron.

The Mercer girls completed their part of the study last week with an examination and week of diet recording.

Winners in the snapshot and small photo group are Brenda Jean Bankston, three and one-half months, class A; Norman H. McCrummen III, one year two months, class B; and Ross Ivey, two years ten months, class C.

Class A group included pictures of children between the age of 1-12 months; class B between the ages of 1-2 years; and class C between the ages of 2-4 years.

Parents of Homer Oglesby, Jr. are Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Oglesby; of Phyllis Mays, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Mays; and of Carol Mowell, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Mowell.

Brenda Bankston is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bankston; Norman McCrummen III, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. McCrummen; and Ross Ivey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Ivey.

Honorable Mention
Class A large photo group honorable mention went to Max Alan Mason, ten months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Mason; class B to Valerie Anne Farmer, one year four months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Farmer; and class C to Andy Lanier, two years six months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lanier.

Honorable mention in the snapshot and small photo group were awarded to Richard Highsmith.
(Continued on Page 4)

Registrar Releases '48-'49 Catalogue

The Mercer University Bulletin and Catalogue for next year has been issued by the registrar's office and is available to students who desire it.

Registrar Frank Clark has called attention to several changes in regulations which will become effective with the fall quarter or earlier. Students are urged to note these changes, particularly in respect to probation rules, admission and graduation requirements.

Among the major changes is that applicants for admission, in addition to filing satisfactory academic records and a medical examination, must also meet standard grades on the admission examination.

Readmission
A student flunking out will be readmitted one time if he can show, in writing, cause of failure and indicate how the handicap would be overcome. He will be admitted.
(Continued on Page 2)

Press Association Convention Brings Outstanding Personalities To Campus

Justice Lee B. Wyatt

Justice Wyatt To Speak Alumni Day

Justice Lee B. Wyatt of the Supreme Court of Georgia will speak at an open house program to be held at Walter F. George School of Law, Mercer University, May 31, at 2:30 p.m. This program, in honor of the law school alumni, is being held in conjunction with the annual Mercer alumni day festivities.

The meeting will be called to order by Oscar H. Marsh, president of the law school student government. Dean F. Hodge O'Neal will present the official welcome to the returning graduates. Justice Wyatt will then be introduced by retiring president of the Mercer Alumni Association, Attorney General Eugene Cook.

Immediately following Justice Wyatt's address, student president Marsh will present plans for the first annual Law Day to be held at the law school on October 29. The president of the alumni association will appoint alumni committees to work with the students in arranging the program for law day.

Library

A list of new magazines concerned with biology, business, education, photography, and theology, has recently been released by the library.

Included on the list are School Executive, Nation's School, American Photography, Journal of Business Education, Journal of American Museum of Natural History, and Theological Studies.

Georgia Baptists Gather On Campus For Week Of Study

Georgia Baptist pastors and church leaders will gather here June 1-4 for their eighteenth annual Fellowship-Leadership Week. The University and Tatt'nall Square Baptist Church will serve as joint hosts for the meeting.

Registration will begin on Monday afternoon, May 31, at Tatt'nall Square Baptist Church. This will allow the visitors to hear the Baccalaureate address at the University, to be delivered by Dr. Edwin A. McDowell of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky.

The purposes of Fellowship-Leadership Week are to study the Bible, provide opportunities for Christian Fellowship, improve Christian lives through study and prayer, discover and develop good church leaders, and to study world conditions and needs.

Morning Program

After breakfast each morning Dr. Charles F. Taylor will conduct a worship service. Following this will be an hour of Bible study under the direction of Dr. McDowell. Then will come group conferences, mission demonstrations, feature programs, and music under the direction of Dr. Arthur Rich, director of music at Mercer. The morning program will be completed each day by a lecture on problems of current interest, to be given by Dr. William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago.

The afternoon will be devoted to group conferences and forums.

Evening programs include a music worship service, an address by Dr. Ogburn, and a sermon by Dr. Taylor.

Living quarters will be provided at the University for the delegates.

Odd?

According to the law of averages five people comparing coins would try several times before one turned up odd.

Just the reverse was true Thursday night in the Co-op when five students, attempting to settle a dispute over who would play the juke, decided to make it easy by dropping out the two who came up alike.

While someone else played the juke, they flipped nine times before two turned up like coins.

Gray To Address Group At Banquet

A banquet at the Bell House restaurant, with James H. Gray, editor of The Albany Herald, as principal speaker, will open the first post-war convention of the Georgia Collegiate Press Association here at 6 p.m. Friday night.

Other speakers of the convention, which will continue through Saturday afternoon, are Richard Joel, department of journalism, Emory University; and Tyus Butler, department of journalism, University of Georgia.

Mr. Joel will address the group at 11 a.m. Saturday, and Mr. Butler is speaker for a luncheon at the S and S cafeteria Saturday noon.

Jim Cowan, editor, and Ralph Temples, news editor, will be official delegates of the Cluster, host publication. Several members of the staff will attend the banquet Friday night, and special guests for the occasion will be Gene Dyar and Jule Greene, former editors of the Cluster.

Registration

Registration for the approximately 50 delegates arriving Friday will be in the Cluster office from 2 to 5 p.m. Friday.

Panel discussions on "Problems of Collegiate Editors" at 9 a.m., and "Advertising and Financial" (Continued on Page 2)

Lawyers Schedule Moot Court Trial

This year's season of moot court trials will close at the Walter F. George School of Law tomorrow night, with the case of Moore vs. Dudley. D. B. Mercer and Hal Bell will represent the plaintiff, Moore, and Oscar Marsh and Alton Gladin will be the council for the claimant, Dudley. This is a case to determine title to personal property levied upon as property of a husband and now being claimed by his wife.

As a part of the prescribed curriculum of study at the law school these moot court trials are held every quarter except the summer quarter. Dates of the trials are set at the beginning of every quarter and are usually held on every other Thursday night.

The cases, taken from actual trial records, are very realistically presented, and in addition to offering the students invaluable experience in trying cases are also very interesting and informative to the spectators. The general public and students from the other departments of the university are always welcome at the trials, which are held in the moot court room of the law school.

Through the trials, students get experience and training in gathering evidence, procuring witnesses, pleading and trying cases before a jury. The juries are impaneled from students in the liberal arts college. Hon. Cubbidge Snow, well known Macon attorney, acts as judge of the Moot Court.

Auctioneer's Chant Interrupts Quiet School Day

by George Oetter

The chant of the auctioneer interrupted the peaceful quiet of a normal school day last week as the household furnishings of the Bartlett home at Ash and College streets were sold to the highest bidders.

Tom Lynn Davis, former Mercer student, was the man who did the selling. Many Mercer students attended their first auction and were quite proud of their purchases.

Among the outstanding pieces offered for sale were the china and linens used at a breakfast for President William Howard Taft when he visited Macon in the fall of 1909.

The house has been partially closed for many years, and has looked deserted with the blinds closed and the once beautiful yard grown up in weeds.

The past, however, would reveal a very exciting career with the climax in 1909 when President Taft visited the Bartletts. Now that the sale is complete, the home will be renovated and made into several apartments for the Mercer faculty. The property now a part of the school campus.