

HATCHER'S HATCHINGS

OH, SO SAD BUT TRUE.

Guss Bootle, going into Jimmie McGlothlin's room: noticed some crepe on the door and said: "Jimmie, who is dead?"
 Jimmie: "No one. Why?"
 Guss: "What's the idea of the crepe?"
 Jimmie: "That's not crepe. That's Straton's towel."

LOGIC.

Dr. Harrison, in Logic: "Fugate, what does your brain do when you want to remember anything?"
 Fugate: "It tells me to open my book."

HOW OLD?

Try this on your friend. Ask him how old a child would be if it were born on New Year's day nineteen "O" nine, if he lived until New Year's day nineteen "O" ten?
 Your friend is almost certain to say a year. You will prove him wrong by writing down: 1909 to 1910 is 17,101.

POOR WIFE.

Thebauld, ex-service man, had died. Two friends were discussing his affairs at the close of the funeral. "Did he leave anything to his wife?" asked Thomason.
 "Noboy knows yet," replied Morrison. "He left her his bonus."
 —American Legion Weekly.

A RAT'S CHANGE.

First day: "Pass the potatoes, please."
 Second day: "Pass the potatoes."
 Third day: "Pass the spuds."
 Fourth day: "Shoot or spud."

SO TRUE.

Co-ed: "Women's minds are much cleaner than men's."

Senior: "They ought to be, they are changed enough."

HE KNOWS.

Prof: "What offers the less resistance to concentric pressure?"
 T-bound: "A flapper." — Emory Wheels.

OH HOW TRUE.

Senior: "That pair of silk host must have cost you an awful lot of money."
 Soph: "Yes, but think of the interest they draw."

THE OTHER KIND, PLEASE.

Bessie Tift: "Your kiss over the telephone reminds me of a straw hat."
 Mercer: "How's that?"
 Bessie Tift: "It can't be felt."

POOR STUDENT.

History Prof: "Georgia was founded for the poor debtors."
 Student: "Yes, sir that is the reason we are so broke now."

BREAKFAST IN YOUR ROOM, STUDY AS YOU LIKE—IN ENGLAND

By H. F. Jelks.

Eating breakfast in your room, studying when you feel like it, and riding a bicycle are some of the privileges enjoyed by the Cambridge students, according to Gordon T. Singleton, graduate of University of Georgia and Cambridge University, in a talk in the Mercer University chapel.

"The world is made up of two kinds of men," said Mr. Singleton, "those who are Mercer men and those who want to be."

"At Cambridge you may have your breakfast served in your room, if you wish, studying is a matter of your own volition, but examinations are rather hard. If you fail to pass your examination you are not given a second trial. You have simply lost out.

You cannot have an automobile but riding a bicycle is the popular thing."

Mr. Singleton said that the different colleges with their beautiful walls and stained glass windows picturing the life of Christ, create a deep spiritual atmosphere. He said the lawns are very beautiful and that when a student dropped a cigarette, cigar or other trash on the lawn the other students would look at him in horror and that if he continued he would be ostracized by the rest of the student body of Cambridge.

"If you meet an American," said Mr. Singleton, "he will tell you that America is the greatest country in the world; but if you meet an Englishman he passes you with his head in the air and expects you to know England is the greatest of all countries. It is said by some that Cambridge is the cradle of the Democracy of England."

B. T. DRAMATICS

The regular meeting of the Bessie Tift Dramatic Club was held in the studio Friday night, where an enjoyable program was carried out. One of the features of the evening was the address of welcome delivered by the president, Mary Harrison, to the new pupils of the Expression department, including Apphia West, Willie Pearl Davis, Ouida Rose and Opal Harper. Also was the club honored with the presence of one of its former members, Miss Eugenia Fox, of Devereau, Georgia.

After a short business session the following readings were given:

"Bobbie Shafts," Apphia West.
 "If," Ruby Duke.
 "Foreigners at the Fair," Mary Lee Ayers.
 "The Photograph (Dunbar), Evelyn Wright.
 "Valler Dog," Mary Harrison.
 Another visitor at the meeting was Miss Ruby Duke, of Fort Valley, who spent the week-end with Misses Jo Allen and Mary Grimes.
