

Socially Speaking

By JOANNE ECKELS

Well, it's now eleven-thirty and the sacred doors of MEP have been bolted for the night; time for me to study Chaucer and try to write my column so I can get it in before deadline. I've called all the fraternity and sorority suites and finally got a few people to confess that they did know of a little news I could put in here—so here it is.

Seems that a few people (Termite?) didn't appreciate my remarks about spring last week. That's what you get for being so obvious. Which reminds me, why does everyone call Reg Tomlin "Yancey"?

Belated congratulations to Shelia Zitznik who was initiated into Alpha Delta Pi a few weeks ago.

Joyce Patch was one of eight girls chosen at Tech to compete for sponsor of the Engineers' Ball. We're proud of you, Joyce.

Several ATO's are planning to attend their big Founders' Day banquet in Atlanta May 11 sponsored by the combined chapters in Georgia.

The AD Pi's are making big plans for their Bowery Ball. Sounds like a big time is in store. Jonesco will be the scene of a big SAE square dance Friday night.

The Chi Omegas annual picnic is set for May 16.

Bobby Simpson visited his Lambda Chi brothers this weekend; and Billy West dropped in on the Sigma Nus.

"Congratulations to you" department:

Carolyn Fretwell and Sonny Robinson from Georgia decided that to be pinned would be mighty nice. . . . Nelle Poole and Bill Trimble who will take the big step in June. . . . Charlie Miller, Oscar Banks, Cecil Brooks, and Jimmy Moughon (Sonny that is) the new officers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

George Boyd, Chuck Culver, George Chamblee, and Flip Jones, the new Phi Delt officers. . . . Bobby Baynard, the new president of FBLA. . . . and Betty Moyo, the new head of Alpha Psi Omega.

A.D. Pi Bowery Ball Is Set for Friday, May 25

The annual Alpha Delta Pi Bowery Ball is to be on May 25, and the location is the Ingleside Community Club, the A. D. Pi's announced this week.

Tickets to the dance will go on sale this weekend and the price is fifty-cents, stag or drag. The Bowery Ball was a huge success last year, and is expected to be as big or bigger one this year.

Billie Jo McDonald, who was in the can-can dance last year at the ball, is in charge of the can-can dancers again this year.

George Boyd Chosen To Head Phi Delta Theta Frat for New Year

Alembic Members Enjoy Outing

Monday afternoon, the members of the Alembic Club and their dates went out to Lakeside Park for the club's annual social event.

Although there was a cool breeze blowing a few brave individuals did go for a swim. After the swim everyone busied themselves with the task of devouring a large quantity of food that had been well selected and prepared by Mr. Ware, and his assistants on the party committee.

Then the crowd flocked to the different entertainments such as miniature golf, bowling, etc.

Classes Meeting Out of Doors

Several of the instructors on the campus have taken advantage of this summer weather by holding their classes outside of the buildings. From all reports, the students and instructors really enjoy being outside instead of inside on days like this and the plan seems to be working quite well.

King and Queen of May Crowned At Colorful Activities Wednesday

Royalty reigned supreme on the campus Wednesday as the May festival, sponsored by WAA, was presented before a large number of students and faculty members on the campus side of Porter gymnasium.

The program got underway with the royal procession to the thrones of the king and queen and their court. Following this Ruth Dunwoody, Macon, maid of honor, crowned the king and queen, Shorty Sheridan, Macon, and Jan Menefee, Luray, Va.

Directed by Miss Julia Beckman and Mr. Clifford Thomson, the festival centered around a gypsy theme. Several folk dances were presented, including Wooden Shoes, Road to the Isles, Kalvelis, a Lithuanian occupational dance, and Cotton-Eyed Joe, an Early American folk dance.

Several specialties were presented by Judy Rhodes, Augusta, George Chakmakis, Macon, Barbara Crow, Macon, and Dottie Curran, Macon.

Mercer co-eds gave outstanding performances of tumbling feats and formed human pyramids. Special tumbling acts were presented by Jim Langley, Atlanta, Billy Woods, Savannah, Bubber Clements, Eatonton, and Pauline and George Chakmakis, Macon.

Also entertaining the court were Bobby Spears and Dan Spivey, Macon, who presented several juggling acts. Seab Miller, Hahira, was jester for the royal court.

Attendants of the royal court were Gloria Downs, Lanier, June Curl, Lyons, senior class;

George Boyd, Atlanta, was recently elected to head Phi Delta Theta fraternity for the coming year.

Other officers elected include Charles Culver, Macon, reporter; George Chamblee, Sparta, warden; Ralph Jackson, Atlanta, treasurer; Phillip Jones, Macon, secretary; Robert Henry, Beverly Hills, California, chaplain; William Fowler, Columbus, historian.

Everett Flournoy, Macon, librarian; Keith Benning, Atlanta, chorister; and James Weaver, Macon, alumnae secretary.

Pi Kappa Phi Rose Banquet May 26

The Pi Kappa Phi's along with their Macon alumnae are planning for their annual Rose Banquet. The banquet will be on May 26, at Pinebrook Inn.

The banquet will feature two important presentations. A plaque will be presented to the Macon alumnus who has been outstanding in his work for the fraternity. The other presentation to be made will be a farewell gift to the fraternity sponsor, Jean Kettles.

Phi Mu's Enjoy Picnic Outing

On Saturday, May 5, the Phi Mus and their dates drove out to Stone Creek Lodge for their annual picnic.

The afternoon was spent boating, swimming, and sunning. In the evening a delicious fried chicken supper was served.

Pledges of the sorority presented a humorous skit. George Jones entertained with some songs on his ukelele. Following this, recitations were given by Helen Johnson, Jean Jordan, Mrs. George Connell, and Ronald Eason.

Following the program, dancing and merry-making was enjoyed by the group present.

Chaperones for the event were Major and Mrs. Connell. Bebe Boswell was in charge of arrangements.

Chi Omega Has Successful Meet

Last weekend, three Chi Omegas, Betty Jo Bernard, Connie Smith, and Ann Woods, drove to Jacksonville, Florida for an annual convention.

The Chi Omegas report that the convention was a very successful one and that much experience was gained by it.

A.D. Pi's Honored This Week

Members of the Alpha Delta Pi chapter on the campus of Mercer and local alumnae will be honored next week during the centennial celebration of the sorority on the NBC show, "The Halls of Ivy", starring Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Colman, Wednesday, May 16.

Miss Maxine Blake, national president of the sorority flies to Hollywood to appear as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Colman on their coast (Continued on Page 4)
