Local Professor Consultant For New Dictionary

W. Phil Smith, head of the modern language department at Mercer, is among 300 leading language scholars from all over the world who have agreed to act as consultants on the second edition of the Britannica World Language Dictionary.

This work is the first really new dictionary in more than a century, according to Robert C. Preble, president of the Britannica company and creator of the multilingual work.

The new Britannica dictionary gives word equivalents in seven languages—English, French, German, Italian, Spanish, Swedish, and Yiddish. These languages are spoken by about a quarter of the world's population, but, considering only the Western World, they are the languages of the residents of Western nations, approximately 625,000,000 persons.

Meet Your Mercer Student Government

JOE HENDRICKS is president of the student body, and therefore becomes head of Student Government and of the student council during his term. Hendricks is a senior ministerial student from Woodland, Ga. He is a member of Blue Key Honor fraternity and Chi Alpha Omega Ministerial Fellowship. He has been on the Baptist Student Union Executive Council for two years, and is active in intramural sports.

In order that the new students may more fully understand the Student Government at Mercer, the Cluster presents the following line-up on those who hold office in the Student Government Association.

First, however, here is a little information about the group's activities. Regular elections for Student Government officers is held near the beginning of the spring quarter. There are two parties in campus politics: Cooperatives and Progressives. This past spring the Progressive Party took every office except one. Their platform had three major points: 1) A workable honor system; 2) a six-page Cluster; and 3) a student operated book exchange. The first two have been carried out and the third is in the process of being organized now.

The entire student government meets every two weeks. Most of the plans are carried out there. The student council's job now is the enforcing of the Honor System. This duty may be shifted to a different group later. Each class has three officers, who carry out the business which controls the distribution of the fee the students pay into the fund for activities such as publications, dramatics, glee club, athletics, etc. The Student Athletic Committee has been virtually inactive for a number of years, and their duties are vague, although the office is filled each year.

ROBERT SPARKS is vice-president of the student body. He is in charge of student chapel programs every Tuesday. He is active in SAE, Phi Eta Sigma, and Blue Key.

Secretary-treasurer of the student body is PEGGY CARLISLE, president of Chi Omega, member of Mercer Choir and Women's Student Government, and Phi Delta sweetheart and sponsor.

Most freshmen already know BILL MIDDLEBROOKS, who is freshman advisor. He is president of BSU and has held offices in Chi Alpha Omega, Phi Eta Sigma, and others.

Editor of the Cluster is C. C. LYNCH, JR., who has been on BSU Executive Council, vice-president of MIMA, and a member of Chi Alpha Omega and the Ministerial Association.

WALTER MOORE is business manager of the Cluster. He is a member of the BSU Executive Council, Mercer Choir, MIMA, and Phi Eta Sigma. He plays varsity tennis.

Editing the Cauldron this year is BARBARA SENFT. She is secretary of AD Pi sorority, vice-president of Kappa Delta Epsilon, and has been sponsor of SAE.

PHIL TAYLOR is business manager of the Cauldron. He is a member of APO service fraternity, and has held several offices in Kappa Alpha fraternity and the Interfraternity council.

The senior class officers are as follows: Joe Watson, Atlanta, president; Charles McDaniel, Columbus, vice-president; and Betty Holland, Macon, secretary and treasurer.

Junior class officers are John Peterson, Atlanta, president; Janet McLaughlin, Chattanooga, vice-president; and Jo Kidd, Newnan, secretary-treasurer.

The sophomore class officers are Gene Temple, Macon, president; Royce Hobbs, Lumpkin, vice-president; and Shirley Wheeler, Buford, secretary-treasurer.

Freshman class officers will be chosen in a special election in the near future.

Student council representatives include the following: Willard Baxter, Bremen, senior class; Sidney Johnson, Vidalia, junior class; Gene Bishop, Vero Beach, Fla., junior college.

Members of the student activities committee include: Hugh Hodges, Ludowici; Arthur Rich, Macon; Delano Maurice, Savannah; Cindy Sartin, Augusta; Nancy Attaway, Statesboro.

Tommy Mixon of Macon and John Binns of Atlanta are the returning members of the athletic committee.

The posts of ministerial group representative to the student council, one student activities committee man, and one athletic committee man are also open for replacement.

Cook Scholarship Goes to Denny

John William Denny of Catauba, Georgia, has been awarded the Eugene Cook Scholarship for the academic year 1954-55 by a faculty committee of the Walter F. George School of Law.

The scholarship, established last year by Eugene Cook, the Attorney-General of Georgia, pays full tuition for the academic year.

Denny was born in Swannanoa, North Carolina, and moved to Georgia at the age of ten. He attended Hamilton High School in Hamilton, Georgia and graduated as valedictorian of his class. His grades during high school were all A's and A plus for the entire four years and his record there has been described as the best made by any pupil during the past ten or fifteen years.

Denny also made an excellent record scholastically during his three years at Mercer University. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma Honor Fraternity and served as president of the Student Council during the summer quarter, 1954.

Korean Attains Life's Ambition And Has Fun While Doing It

By Therese Mann

"I want to be good friends with the Mercer students while I am here." These are the words of a young man who has come from half way around the world to be a student here. Most of you have already met him, and you recognize the name "Kim" as soon as someone mentions it.

Kim, Jong-Chun, or as we would write the name: Jong-Chun Kim, is a very likeable fellow and one with high ideals, toward which he is working. Among these goals we find his reason for being in America and here at Mercer. His life's ambition has been to get an American education and then take what he has learned back to his own country.

His study is in economics. The pressing problem in his country now is the economy and rehabilitation. He plans to seek a position with his government in diplomatic service. Actually, a position won't be hard to find, for there are few who have an American education in his country. Kim says that the officials there are keeping an eye on him. They will expect him to be able to do much better work for having been to school in the United States.

How Kim came to find out about Mercer is a very interesting story. John M. Herring from Tifton, Georgia, and a Mercer graduate became acquainted with Kim when they were both assigned to the 9th regiment in Korea. Mr. Herring was the Red Cross Field

JONG-CHUN KIM, popular new student from Korea, displays his Japanese-English dictionary.

Director for his regiment. Because of Kim's unusual ability and his quick mind, Mr. Herring became interested in helping him with his college education. On December 25, 1952, the first letter about Kim was written to Mercer. An answer followed just 3 weeks later. Arrangements were made, and now Kim is a full-fledged freshman of Mercer University—rat-cap and all!

Kim's home is near Seoul, Korea. He served during the Korean conflict as an interpreter for eight months with the 187th RCT and for about three years with the Counter-Intelligence Corps. He has a brilliant record in his work.

In a letter to his home town newspapers in Wilkes Barre, Pa., Calvin R. Thornwald, Special Agent, CIC, said this about Kim: "Time and time again (Kim) saved the lives of UN soliders by his quick thinking and knowledge of the terrain."

Of Kim's love for his country, Mr. Thornwald says this: "His love of country is not the fanatical hysteria-founded devotion of ancient Orient; but true patriotism measured by our highest standards . . . Kim, Jong-Chun is the personification of Democracy."

Kim is trying hard to become acquainted with the various activities here at Mercer. As everyone well knows, he plays a keen game of ping-pong, which is one of the favorite sports of his native country. He has never seen an American baseball or football game; however, he played baseball and soccer while in high school. Although he has a little more difficulty in school than we do because of the language differences, Kim says, "I have resolved that I will work and study hard"—so that the excellent opportunity he has will not be wasted.

Kim is very impressed with the beauty of Mercer campus. He likes Mercer and Georgia very much so far, even if they are quite different from what he imagined.

These last words are from the pen of Kim: "First of all, I want to thank the American people for charity of helping our people and the great many favors received throughout the tragic and bitter Korean War . . . Since I have arrived at Mercer, I am deeply impressed with the kindness of people . . ."

It is up to us to help Kim keep that opinion. How about it?

NEW FACULTY MEMBERS

Eta Sigma, Phi Kappa Phi, and Phi Beta Kappa.

A former member of Mercer faculty has returned to teach history after studying in France as a Fulbright student. Dr. Charles LeGuin received his A.B. from Mercer in 1948, after which he received his M.A. from Northwestern. It was then that he did research work on the history of the French Revolution as a Fulbright student from Emory University. Dr. LeGuin is a member of Phi Eta Sigma. He was married to Miss Ursula Krober of Berkeley, California, in France, in December, 1953.

Dr. Charles B. Kopp has been selected to teach English and journalism at Mercer this fall. Dr. Kopp received his A.B. and M.A. degrees from Mercer and his D. Ed. from the University of Georgia. He worked in the department of public relations while he was working on his Master's degree. Dr. Kopp is married and has three children.

Three additions have been made to the R.O.T.C. staff. Colonel William D. Smith is taking Colonel Tonnar's place as Professor of Military Science and Tactics. He came here from overseas duty, having been stationed in Formosa with the U. S. Military Assistance Advisory Group. Colonel Smith attended Birmingham Southern College and did post-graduate work at Alabama Polytechnic Institute. He is married and has two daughters, both of whom attend Mercer.

Captain R. E. Stone, new Assistant Professor Military Science and Tactics, comes to Mercer from Middle Tennessee State Teachers College. He received his education at Clemson Agricultural College in South Carolina. He is married and has no children.

Master Sergeant William E. Malambri from Quincy, Illinois, has been appointed as the ROTC band director this fall. He came to Mercer from Ft. Bragg where he has been for the past nine years.

Mr. Judson Moss is here for one year while Ray Brewster, director of religious activities, is on leave. Mr. Moss is a graduate of Mercer in the class of 1954. While he was a member of Blue Key, Alpha Phi Omega, editor of the Cluster. Following his graduation from Mercer, Dr. Moss attended the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky.
