

$15,000,000 AD BUILDING SLATED

Ultra-Modern Edifice Set For Campus

By Long Jim Baloney

A new, ultra-modern, 9 1/2 story, $15,000,000 administration building is scheduled for immediate construction on the Murdered campus. Dr. Real George Cornel, MU president, announced late yesterday afternoon. Construction of the edifice was approved by the trustees in a special call meeting yesterday.

Ground Will Be Broke

Ground breaking for the magnificent new structure will be held Sunday morning at 11. Attendance by all Murdered students will be compulsory. Folding chairs will be arranged in the same pattern as the seats in Willingham Chapel and attendance will be checked.

The new ad building will include all the usual features plus such special things as an elaborate faculty restaurant, a spacious ball room, a parking garage, a hotel, and a roof-top astronomical observatory.

I. Ama Star In Command

The observatory will be located in the special one and a half story ninth floor, and will include a 300-inch telescope. This is a part of the establishment of a School of Celestial Engineering, to be headed by Dr. I Ama Star, former head of the world famous Mt. Palomino observatory in California.

Big Names In Numbers

The elaborate faculty restaurant, seating 300, will be decorated with interiors from old castles and manor houses of Europe. Monsieur Antoine, formerly of New York and New Orleans, will be chief chef, assisted by Misses Betty Crocker and Ann Pillsbury. Big name movie stars, such as Lassie, Trigger, Rin Tin Tin, and Tweetie Pie, will provide entertainment during serving hours. Students will be served free of charge, although the faculty will be charged ridiculously high prices.

You Can Park Your Car

The grand ball room, accomodating 1750, will be used for such traditional Murdered events as the President's Charity Shindig, the annual Dogpatch Hoodown, and parking of faculty automobiles.

The student parking garage, free to all students presenting their Student Activities cards, will occupy the second through the fifth floors. The first floor will be used as a general lobby and television room with color TV receivers placed every ten feet throughout the area.

We Can't Pay Our Guest

The seventh and eighth floors will contain a hotel administered by Murdered's new School of Hotel Management. It will be available to the general public. However, the hotel may not be a self-supporting enterprise. "If we don't run a better establishment than our present one in Bartlett House," said Dr. I. Runa Dump, dean of the hotel school, "we may have to pay our guests to stay with us."

To Be Real George!

The new building will be located on Collega Street on the large vacant area next to the present administration building. The entire building will be furnished with the latest modern furniture. Lighting will be by fluorescent chandeliers made of hand-out imported crystal. "This is going to be real George," commented President Real George Cornel. "I nearly flipped when I heard about it."

Gigantic 4-School Merger Plan Is Announced Today

To Be Combined On MU Campus

By Complete Control Linshky

It was announced today that plans have been completed for the merging of Murdered University, Tessie Bift College, Westerland College, and Gorgy School for Cool Women.

Reasons for the planned combining of the four institutions were listed as fourfold: (1) to help the national defense; (2) to bring about savings for education; (3) to insure more attention to studies; and (4) to resolve religious problems.

In an effort to help the national defense, according to Murdered President Real George Cornel, the move will "be a great success. Just think of the thousands of gallons of gasoline the boys use traveling to the sister institutions each week. Now they can see their girls here on the campus, and all will be benefited."

The savings for education, says a GSCW official will be really enormous. Many of the present facilities of the institutions can be combined. "However," says the stern college president, "segregation will still be enforced. All boys will be expected out of the girls' dormitory by 11 each night." He adds, "Only one minor problem really has us stumped. How does a person go about moving a three-story brick dormitory from Milledgeville to Macon?"

It is felt by officials that students will now be able to give more attention to their lessons. Formerly it was felt that boys and girls separated could study better, but it has been found that their minds wander to the places their sweet-hearts live. "We admit defeat," commented Tessie Bift Prexy Carey Salt Vinsant; "we must say that a boy or girl can be better taught if his mind is within the general area of the school (say, not more than a block or two away) than if it is thirty miles away."

The hope that the combining of the four colleges, especially of Murdered and Westerland, would reconcile Baptists and Methodists was expressed by Westerland Administrator B. J. (Big John) Martian. "Who knows?" the hopeful college president said: "we may compromise and start baptizing with a damp cloth."

Officials admit that it seems that most of the advantages are for Murdered boys, but they are now running in three eight hour shifts daily to think of some good excuse to give the Murdered girls for the change. A proposed advantage has been set as "making it necessary for the local girls to work harder for their men. They have it too easy now, and everybody likes a challenging task more than a pushover."

The exact date for the transfer of the three girls' colleges to the Murdered campus has not been determined, but officials state that it will possibly take place about the fall quarter of 1955. This date was selected because that will be the year some of the present freshmen are seniors (well, some of them are a little slow to learn).

Most of the Murdered students who have heard of the plans are enthusiastic. As one intellectual student so aptly expressed the consensus of student opinion, "Now perhaps we can have a wider range of courses and more well-qualified instructors."

Then there is the non-intellectual approach expressed by one student: "OH BOY! GIRLS! ! !"

Dean's List Shows Drop

Murdered's Dean of the Liberal Arts College, Coy? Faylor?, today announced that only 3143 of Murdered's 3866 registered students made the winter quarter dean's list. The Dean expressed great disappointment over the 511 decrease this shows from last quarter.

Some observers have guessed that the decrease may be due to the raising of Murdered's standards for the dean's list. Formerly, the required average was only three A's, but the new standard is two A-pluses and one A. Faylor said the increased requirements were necessary to raise the accreditation of Murdered University.

Many students were shocked to find that their names were not on the newly released list. More than 300 of the 511 who did not make the list this time due to the change have announced their intentions to transfer to some other college. Rumor has been circulated that some of those who will quit may form an independent college. "If Baptist churches can do it," one commented, "why can't Baptist colleges?"

One professor expressed the general faculty let-down over the poor showing of the students. He said that out of his class of 763 in advanced atomic theory (Physics 1399) only 762 made A's.

"This is the poorest class I have ever had," said the professor. "Not one A-plus was made. I think students are becoming less intelligent every year. If it continues, we may have to drop some of the more difficult courses. On the final exam in my class only three students gave a complete, detailed explanation of Einstein's theory of relativity."

Murdered President Real George Cornel said that, if the expected drop in enrollment does take place, "we will probably put only six boys to a room in Sherwood. After all, we won't be using Sherwood more than a hundred more years anyway."

TIXONS

JERSEY

MURDERED STUDENTS recently voted in chapel to retire the Jersey of Mommy Tixon. Tixon has been very outstanding in his field. Only one other Murdered student has had his Jersey retired. Shown above is Tixon's Jersey shortly before being retired.

Murdered Clutter To Be Big 24-Page Daily Paper

By Complete Control Linshky

The Murdered Clutter will be a daily newspaper beginning in about two weeks, it was announced today by incoming Editor Long Jim Baloney. The now six-page, 12 x 16 inch page-size Clutter will become 24 pages, regular newspaper size.

Some slight changes will take place in the coverage of the new student publication. There will be no advertisements or editorials. Most of the paper will be filled with jokes and comic strips. No straight news story will be more than two paragraphs long.

The writers' style will be greatly simplified, according to Baloney. Whereas the style at present is cumbered with intellectual language and research, the overall style will be brought down to the Murdered students' level.

Under the new set-up all staff members will have to spend more time on the student publication. At present the staff members spend only 12 hours a day, six days a week on The Clutter. Now they will be required to spend 15 hours a day, seven days a week.

The staff members will be excused from taking one of their courses also. They will now have to take only four courses instead of five, as before. There are only 223 staff members at present, but it is expected that a few more will join the staff.

A special arrangement has been made with the New York Dimes, under which the Clutter will carry the Dimes as an insert two days a week. In return, the local paper will carry many of the columnist and comics that the Dimes holds exclusive rights to. Such writers as Eastriver Peleger, Halter Stinchel, and Edward Are Tomorrow will grace the pages of the new Clutter. Cartoons such as Lil' Alabaster, Teeny Twi, e, Judge Park Stir, and Gopo will head up the comics section.

The daily paper will be delivered to the rooms of the students early each morning so they may read the Clutter with their cereals. In fact, some students may eat shredded Clutter with their breakfasts if they order it delivered with the paper.

The new Clutter will be printed in the new print shop of Murdered University. The paper will be financed entirely by student activities funds.

150-PIECE UNIT

Band Returns From Europe

Murdered's marching band will return to the campus tomorrow morning following an extended concert tour of Europe, it was announced by school officials yesterday.

The 150 piece unit has played for the last two months in the presence of dignitaries all over Europe. The group originated as a part of the local ROTC regiment, but it has grown now to be a major part of the school's music department.

Former choir-director, Dr. Arthur That's Rich, is conducting the band. He still holds his office as head of the music department. There are some 15 assistants in the music department to assist the absentee head.

The group will now begin practice for next year's concert tour of the United States. None of the members of the band are required to attend classes. Most of them graduate in only eight years, as compared to the average of 12 years for most Murdered students.
