

MERCER LAW SCHOOL ENTERS
AMERICAN LAW ASSOCIATION.
WITH JUDGE FISH AS DEAN

Department Now Conforms to All Requirements

ODDITIES OF MERCER
PROFS.—BY STUDENTS

Beginning with 1924-25 Mercer University School of Law will require those who enter to have finished at least two years of college work toward a degree. These changes in the requirements for admission of students are made to conform with the requirements of the leading law schools in the United States.

Mercer is making application for admission in the Association of American Law Schools this Fall. The association demands certain standards of instruction and preparation of students. The Mercer University Law School has met and conforms to all of the requirements of the association. The law library is one of the most adequate in the South, having at present more than 5,000 volumes actually in use.

Subjects Offered

Dean William H. Fish, who for many years has been the esteemed Chief Justice of the Georgia Supreme Court, heads the Mercer law faculty. The subjects offered by Dean Fish in the approaching year will be Georgia Practice, Wills and Administration of Estates, Bills and Notes, Mortgages and Evidence.

Judge William Hamilton Felton, Jr., Judge Malcolm D. Jones and J. R. L. Smith will again give their courses in Criminal Law and Procedure, Domestic Relations and the courses in Equity. O. A. Park, editor of Park's Annotated Code of Georgia, Harry Strosler, secretary of the Georgia Bar Association, and Judge J. N. Talley, Master of Chancery in Bankruptcy Court, will again give their courses in Constitutional Law, the courses in Pleadings, Insurance, Federal Courts and Bankruptcy. Dr. John H. Moore, J. D., of the University of Chicago, will offer courses in Contracts, Quasi-Contracts, Damages, Sales and Conflict of Laws.

Faculty Enlarged

Mercer University announces new additions to the law faculty in C. Baxter Jones, Yale, 1917, and Dr. Rufus C. Harris, Yale, 1923. Professor Jones will offer the courses in Court and Trial Practice, Equity, Jurisdiction and Pleading and Commercial Law. Dr. Harris is a Doctor of Jurisprudence of the Yale, 1923 class, and will offer the courses in Personal and Real Property, Torts, Titles, Partnership and Suretyship. Dr. Harris has been elected the secretary of the Law School, and Dr. Moore is the librarian.

The application of the Mercer University Law School for membership in the Association of American Law Schools is an important step to those interested in legal training and development of a character that approaches that given by the great Eastern universities. Meeting the requirements of membership in this association by Mercer University insures the very best legal training for Georgia and Southern men and women in the field of law.

Prominent lawyers declare that Chief Justice Fish, dean of the Mercer University Law School, handed down more decisions during his twenty-six years of service than any justice in America.

WILLIAM HANSELL FISH, A. B., LL. D.

Dean of the School of Law, Professor of Law.

A. B., University of Georgia, 1869; graduate student, Law School of the University of Virginia, 1869-71; LL. D., University of Georgia, 1929; Judge of County Court, Macon County, 1877-81; Judge of the Southwestern Circuit, 1891-95; Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Georgia, 1895-1905; Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Georgia, 1905-22; Dean of the

Outstanding Characteristics by Which Instructors Are Best Known.

What makes some men more outstanding than others?

Here are some of the oddities of Mercer professors. They typify these men exactly, and the name of one suggests the other, according to student classification.

First, there is "Dooby" Robinson. He has a walk all his own. In his class room he always has some stale joke to make himself blush abundantly.

Dr. Pippin, the most outstanding character in school, never sits down in the classroom. He has a little cough in his speech which cannot be limited. When talking he simply claps his hands if anyone is disorderly, but he never stops his talking. The students seem to understand what he means perfectly.

Has It Mad

The only thing peculiar about Dr. Fountain is that he has a severe case of radio fever. When this disease first broke out he contracted it in its most severe form and hasn't gotten over it yet.

Dr. Ragsdale's famous motto is "Cash-in is Victory." He is always ready for some one to cash-in. If you are all upset, go to Dr. Ragsdale and he will make you forget your troubles, for he is the calmest man on the campus.

Do not leave out "Systematic" Holder, for without any system one could not get along very well. Upon entering the classroom his first statement is "assign the next work first." His talk is as fast as a talking machine.

Surely one cannot leave out "Generous" George Sparks. He always has some news story to tell. He does not talk as though he is talking to a crowd, but rather seems to be talking to you personally.

"Huck" Knight is right there with the women. The girls all love him dearly and he enjoys it very much. He is as the girls say, "The Tea Hound of the Faculty."

Dr. Montague is the orator of the faculty. He is a friend to the boys. His name will go down in campus history as the greatest orator ever known to the college.

Last, but not least, is Miss Sallie Boone. She has a smile and a cordial "Hel-lo-o-o" for every one. Her motto is "You won't ever be happy anywhere until you can be happy everywhere."

Miss Boone, Mercer University librarian, is said to know personally more college men scattered over the South than any other woman.

WILLIAM JOSEPH BRADLEY,

A. B., A. M.

Dean of School of Commerce, Professor of Political Science.

A. B., Mercer University, 1902; A. B., A. M., University of Chicago, 1905; graduate student, University of Chicago, Summer Quarter, 1910; High School Principal two years; Department of Economy and Political Science, North Georgia Agricultural College, 1907-11; Oklahoma Baptist University, Department of Sociology, 1911-1912, and the Department of History and Government, 1920-1922; South Georgia State Normal College, Department of History, 1912-1920; Scholarship in Philosophy in University of Chicago, 1905, and Austin scholarship Harvard University, 1912; Professor of Political Science and Dean of School of Commerce, Mercer University, 1922—

School of Law and Professor, Mercer University, 1923—

Doody's Store News

Published By W. A. Doody Co. Wednesday Morning, Sept. 26, 1923. Macon, Georgia

Welcome Mercer-Bessie Tift
Young Ladies of Bessie Tift
We Invite You to Doody's

The discriminating Women of Middle Georgia who demand Quality look to this store for Styles.

In Each Community

There is some one recognized leader in all professions.

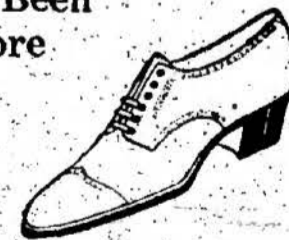

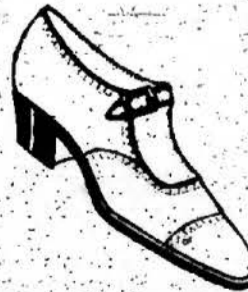

In Macon the leading Ready-to-Wear and Millinery Specialists are W. A. Doody Co.

Doody's Shoe News

The A. E. Little Shoe

No Shoe Has Ever Been Made Like It Before

Colleges and universities throughout the world are today advocating the proper care of feet while at school.

For 25 years the A. E. Little Company has worked with untiring efforts to produce the A. E. Little Shoe which is today recognized by Orthopedic Surgeons and Dame Fashion as proper for college footwear.

At Doody's a corps of A. E. Little salesmen await your call to personally see that you are properly fitted.

W. A. Doody Co.

For 82 Years—The Best Place to Shop

Ready-to-Wear, Millinery, Shoes, Piece Goods, Novelties, Accessories, China, Luggage

SHERWOOD HALL